

New Work

Flexible forms of work and working from home give skilled workers more freedom and personal responsibility. At the same time, the importance of the place of work is increasing. An attractive environment motivates people to visit the workplace regularly.

The cultural and spa town of Baden offers ideal conditions: an attractive business location combined with real added value in everyday life - and all within walking distance. Thermal baths, a wide range of sports and leisure activities, simple catering, shopping facilities and cultural meeting places create an environment that combines health, efficiency and quality of life.

A pilot project with Hitachi Energy shows how the city of Baden is actively responding to the needs of New Work - for example with news feeds for internal company channels or customised city tours for new employees.

Are you interested too? Take the opportunity to differentiate yourself.

More information